The Roman Catechism

Part II: The Sacraments — The Holy Eucharist (cont'd.)

Preparation Of Body

Our preparation should not, however, be confined to the soul; it should also extend to the body. We are to approach the Holy Table fasting, having neither eaten nor drunk anything at least from the preceding midnight until the moment of Communion.

The dignity of so great a Sacrament also demands that married persons abstain from the marriage debt for some days previous to Communion. This observance is recommended by the example of David, who, when about to receive the showbread from the hands of the priest, declared that he and his servants had been clean from women for three days.

The above are the principal things to be done by the faithful preparatory to receiving the sacred mysteries with profit; and to these heads may be reduced whatever other things may seem desirable by way of preparation.

The Obligation of Communion

How Often Must Communion Be Received?

Lest any be kept away from Communion by the fear that the requisite preparation is too hard and laborious, the faithful are frequently to be reminded that they are all bound to receive the Holy Eucharist. Furthermore, the Church has decreed that whoever neglects to approach Holy Communion once a year, at Easter, is liable to sentence of excommunication.

Announcements

From Jan. 18-25, we will have Devotions for the Chair of Unity Octave after Mass. The Chair of Unity Octave was established in 1908 by Pope St. Pius X. It is a week of prayer for the conversion of non-Catholics. Every year it begins on the feast of the Chair of St. Peter at Rome and ends on the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul. The Vatican II Church has subverted its original intent and transformed it into a celebration of ecumenism.

This week it is time again for our monthly All-Night Adoration. Please sign up for a slot on the sheet posted in the vestibule - and feel free to bring a friend or family member!

Our monthly Adult Doctrine Class will be held this Saturday at the Jesse & Jackie Sellers residence in Lebanon at 7:00 pm. Please RSVP to Fr. Trough if you plan on attending so Father knows how much food and pop to bring.

Next Sunday we will have our annual parish meeting after the morning Mass. The location this time will be The Enchanted Village at 3 South Sycamore St in Lebanon. It's only two blocks from church! We plan on having a brief discussion of various "business" items and then enjoy a nice breakfast with each other. All parishioners and visitors are invited to attend.

Last Sunday
(1/7/18)
